WHAT IS DIABETIC RETINOPATHY?

Diabetic retinopathy (DR) occurs when blood vessels in the retina are damaged.

Who is at risk? According to Diabetes Canada, DR affects 23% of people with type 1 diabetes and 14% of people with type 2 diabetes.

What are the risk factors for developing DR?

Symptoms

Diabetic retinopathy may cause no symptoms initially, but as the disease progresses, symptoms may include:

- Loss of central vision
- Blurry vision
- Flashes of light in field of vision
- Inability to see colours
- Black spots or holes in vision

How is DR treated?

In the early stages, DR can be managed by controlling blood sugar levels and blood pressure. However, as DR progresses, options to maintain vision include anti-VEGF injections, laser treatment or surgery. Early detection of diabetic retinopathy is crucial, as treatment is much more likely to be successful at an early stage.

How can DR be prevented?

- Monitor and maintain control of your diabetes.
- See your doctor regularly and follow instructions about diet, exercise and medication.
- See your optometrist for a thorough eye examination when you are first diagnosed with diabetes, and annually thereafter.

How is DR diagnosed? DR is diagnosed through a comprehensive eye exam by your optometrist. The exam may include:

Eastern Ontario Medical Officer of Health Warns of Rising new Tick-Borne illness

Canadians exploring the outdoors this summer are being warned about threats other than Lyme disease from tick bites as cases rise. While Lyme disease is the most common concern about ticks, health officials are increasingly worried about another tick-borne disease called anaplasmosis.

Experts reported their concerns about the “rapidly rising” incidents of anaplasmosis, the second most common disease spread by ticks in Ontario. “We’re now sounding the alarm once again that ticks and tick-borne illnesses are an emerging concern in eastern Ontario,” Dr. Paul said. “Now it’s not only Lyme disease; it’s also anaplasmosis.

Researchers described the case of a 79-year-old man from a rural area in eastern Ontario 2 hours drive from Pikwakanagan who had shown up at a community hospital this month with “fatigue, chills and generalized weakness that led to a fall.”

He tested positive for anaplasmosis that resulted but eventually recovered after treatment. The province reported over 10,000 cases of Lyme disease have been recorded in Ontario since 2021. Since 2023, there have also been more than 300 cases of anaplasmosis

“The patient’s cognition normalized within 24 to 48 hours, and his blood counts, renal function, and liver (enzymes) gradually improved for the remainder of his hospitalization.”

What are the symptoms?

Experts say symptoms can include fever, weakness, headache and gastrointestinal distress.

Anaplasmosis can damage vital organs, causing hospitalization from health problems such as myocarditis, encephalitis, acute respiratory distress syndrome, and acute renal failure, though they are less common and death is rare, experts say.

Is there a treatment?

Recognizing the disease early and getting treatment can prevent “life-threatening complications,” according to the report.

The current treatment recommended is 100 mg of oral doxycycline, twice a day for 10 to 14 days, researchers wrote. Patients typically improve within 24 to 48 hours of treatment, but if there is no change, health-care providers should consider “alternative diagnoses.”

AOPFN Alternative Means Assessment for the Alto Project

Issued by: Algonquins of Pikwàkanagàn First Nation, Consultation Department

Issue Date: July 16, 2026

Proposal Deadline: July 31, 2026, before 4:00 p.m. ET

Submission Email: projectco8@pikwakanagan.ca

Questions Deadline: July 22, 2026, by 12:00 p.m. ET

Overview

The Algonquins of Pikwàkanagàn First Nation (AOPFN) invites proposals from qualified consultants to develop and conduct an AOPFN-led Alternative Means Assessment (AMA) in collaboration with the proposed Alto High-Speed Rail Project. The AMA will help AOPFN assess feasible route alternatives within AOPFN's unceded and unsurrendered traditional territory. The work will be guided by AOPFN values, criteria, the AOPFN Advisory Council, Knowledge Holders, and other participants identified by AOPFN.

The AMA will be completed in coordination with the AOPFN Algonquin Knowledge and Land Use Study (AKLUS) for the Alto Project. AOPFN prefers approaches that improve coordination, reduce duplication, and limit consultation fatigue for AOPFN staff, Knowledge Holders, and members. The work will be completed in two stages. The first stage will focus on the central portion of the Alto corridor within AOPFN territory, from Ottawa toward Montreal, with an interim memo due by the end of October 2026. The second stage will focus on the western portion of the corridor, from Ottawa toward Toronto, with a final report due by May 2027.

The successful consultant will demonstrate relevant experience conducting similar studies, working with First Nations, facilitating community-based processes, and supporting route or alternatives assessment work.
