DIABETIC RETINOPATHY

Diabetic Retinopathy (DR) is the leading cause of blindness in individuals under 75 years of age. It is also the most common complication of diabetes.

DR occurs when there are increased levels of sugar in the blood that can cause the blood vessels in the eye to swell and leak in the retina damaging it. New blood vessels can then also grow which causes further damage.

Nearly everyone with Type 1 diabetes and 60% of those living with Type 2 diabetes will develop some form of DR within the first 20 years after the onset of diabetes. The risk increases the longer one has diabetes. The risk however can be lowered through controlling the diabetes.

Managing the diabetes is the best way to lower the risk of DR. This means keeping the blood sugar levels in a healthy range. This can be achieved through regular physical activity, healthy eating, mindful living, and making sure to take your doctor/nurse practitioner prescribed diabetes medication. Aim to meet your A1C goals every 3 months.

High blood pressure and high cholesterol along with having diabetes will also increase risk for diabetic retinopathy. Therefore, controlling blood pressure and cholesterol levels will also help lower the risk for vision loss.

With early detection, treatment is often very successful and can prevent any further eye health damage. Therefore, if you do have diabetes, it is so important to get regular eye exams. Sometimes, vision lost due to diabetic retinopathy cannot be regained. However, with early detection and treatment, you can reduce your risk of blindness by 95%.

There are 4 stages of diabetic retinopathy and they range from mild to severe. In the first 3 stages, vision loss may not be noticeable or detected. The 4th stage is when vision loss can occur quickly.

If you have any of the following diabetic retinopathy symptoms, please see your doctor immediately:

- Dark spots in your visual field
- Blurred, distorted or double vision
- Large “floaters” (dots, circles, cobwebs that move across your field of vision)

Make sure you're taking the right steps in order for Diabetic Retinopathy to stay at bay:

- Keep track of your blood sugar and blood pressure.
- Book regular appointments with your eye doctor to identify changes to your vision.
- Yearly eye exams are free in Canada if you have been diagnosed with diabetes.
- Take all your prescribed medication as instructed by your doctor.
- Practice healthy habits like eating a balanced diet and getting regular exercise.
- Speak to your doctor before starting any new form of exercise or diet regimen.
- Learn about your condition. The more you know, the better you can control your diabetes

For more information on diabetic retinopathy and diabetes in general, please contact Natalie Mooy, diabetic navigator at diabetic.navigator@pikwakanagan.ca or 613-401-3679
