“IT WON'T BE LIKE THIS FOREVER”

Addiction can make a person feel hopeless and trapped. It controls us and makes us forget who we used to be. However, recovery is a step toward gaining control of your life again. You no longer have to be a slave to the disease. With sobriety, it is possible to regain that sense of freedom you felt you lost for so long ago.

Our greatest glory is not in never falling, but in rising up every time we fall.

- Show great respect for your fellow beings
- Work together for the benefit of all mankind
- Give assistance and kindness whenever needed

“Pikwàkanagàn Chief and Council want to share with community members that we are supporting a partnership with Professor Duncan McCue of Carleton University’s School of Journalism and Communication this winter.

Professor McCue is Anishinaabe, and is teaching a course called Reporting in Indigenous Communities which aims to improve how the journalists of tomorrow cover Indigenous issues.

Students from his course have been assigned to cover our community, and this term, their theme is economic development.

They will be producing a piece of journalism that will be published on Carleton’s website and perhaps in the Globe and Mail. The students will be visiting our community from January to April, and will be reaching out to community members for story ideas.

If you have any questions about the course or the students, you’re welcome to contact

Omàmiwinini Pimàdjiwowin recognizes Mazda Rising Legends - Nevaeh Sarazin

Mazda Rising Legends and Production crew was welcomed into the community to film and photograph an interview with Nevaeh Sarazin on January 12th and 13th. Nevaeh had requested the youth drum group, Xavier Stirzaker, Forrest Two-Axe Kohoko, Leilyn Kingsbury-Luloff, Colby Nerlich, Keon Sarazin and their teachers, Kevin Lamarr and Brian Sarazin to drum a song so she could encapsulate her regalia and jingle dress dancing. This also being the boys first drum gig. Practice certainly paid off for these young gentlemen.

Not only did Mazda and the production crew get to showcase who Nevaeh is and what she is passionate about, the team got the honour to meet our Chief, Greg Sarazin. They were also invited to play in a competitive game of “Pakinwage/Kawiindang” (I win/Bingo), enjoy a meal and experience what community is at Economic Development and Omàmiwinini Pimàdjiwowin’s “Social Nights”.

Pikwakanagan is so proud of this young trailblazer - Nevaeh Sarazin, for receiving the Mazda Rising Legends Award.

Infant Formula Recall
To:	Community Leadership, Health Directors, Community Health Representatives, Nurses, and other allied service providers and supports in Ontario Nursing Stations, Health Centres, Health Centres with Treatment, and Home and Community Care
From:	FNIHB-OR: CD Unit
Date:	January 3, 2024
Regarding:	Recall on infant formula: Enfamil brand Nutramigen A+ LGG Hypoallergenic

- In case you have not received through other channels, please find below details regarding a recall of infant formula.
- Please share as appropriate with programs, business or community members in your area.
- Communities are encouraged to sign up for Canadian Food Inspection Agency recall notifications by following the link: Sign up for recall notifications by email

On December 31, Health Canada released an advisory and a recall was made by the company for Enfamil brand Nutramigen A+ LGG Hypoallergenic infant formula, due to possible contamination with Cronobacter sakazakii.

Issue: The affected products are being recalled from the marketplace due to possible Cronobacter sakazakii contamination.

What you should do:

- If you think you, or someone you know, became sick from consuming a recalled product, contact your healthcare provider
- Check to see if you have recalled products
- Do not consume, serve, use, sell, or distribute recalled products
- Recalled products should be thrown out or returned to the location where they were purchased

Food contaminated with Cronobacter sakazakii may not look or smell spoiled but can still make you sick.

Cronobacter sakazakii is not commonly linked to human illness but in rare cases it can cause fatal bloodstream and central nervous system infections. It has also been associated with severe intestinal infection and blood poisoning, especially in newborns.

Health Canada indicates there have been no reported illnesses associated with the formula but batches with an expiry date of January 1, 2025, involving the 561 gram containers should not be consumed or sold.

Batches affected include:

UPC	Codes
0 56796 00498 2	Item# 3230626	Expiry 01-JA-2025	Batch # 0704376 (ZL3FVY)
0 56796 90498 5	Item# 3230626	Expiry 01-JA-2025	Batch # 0704376 (ZL3FVY)

The Canadian Food Inspection Agency (CFIA) is conducting a food safety investigation, which may lead to the recall of other products. The CFIA is verifying that industry is removing recalled products from the marketplace.

For more information please visit the Food Recall Warning.

Please note, this advice is intended to supplement, not replace, the advice of local public health authorities.
