Algonquins of Pikwakanagan First Nation

Chief and Council Update – May 2nd, 2025

Chief and Council want to inform the membership that we have been successful in restarting the Algonquin Treaty negotiations, and talks are set to begin again very soon. There was some question however, about what effect the outcome of the recent federal election might have. Just before the election was called, the federal government (Liberal) appointed a new negotiator, Deborah Corber, which signaled their commitment to return to the Algonquin negotiation table.

In the Liberal Governments election platform, Prime Minister Mark Carney pledged to Work in partnership on the implementation of treaties, land claims, and self-government agreements. In addition to implementing United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples (UNDRIP) and the Action Plan. A potential Conservative election win did not look promising for us.

This past Monday, Mark Carney and the Liberal government was re-elected and now Chief and Council can prepare to begin our treaty negotiations once again. Council have also continued to work to address the concerns of the membership, such as questionable legitimacy of AOO Members, land tenure, and loss of confidence with the Negotiation Lawyers just to name a few. That work will continue.

Chief and Council will also work hard to ensure that the Prime Minister stays true to his word. A community meeting is being planned for the near future to provide a more complete update.
